

Delay of the repair

Currently, like so many others, we are struggling with the availability of components.

Unfortunately, this also affects more and more components that are used in our devices. We hope that the shortage will be over very soon and that we will again be supplied with components in the usual way. As soon as components become available for repair, we will carry out the repairs as quickly as possible.

Unfortunately, we cannot say now when we will be supplied with all components again. However, we are in close contact with our suppliers and are doing everything possible.

We thank you for your understanding and patience while waiting for your repair.

Your SIUS Repair Department